

SCHOOL SPIRITS: Sigma Kappa's annual toast to freshmen came at this year's Rhody Night, held Friday in Keaney Gym.

FREEK DAY:

SNAP!

by Donna-Jean White

Freshmen, yelling "We're number one," threw away their beanies after winning a maxi-tug-of-war against fraternity and sorority members on Freek Day Saturday.

The victory was a little questionable, however. The 100 yard rope with a tensile strength of some 9,000 pounds snapped and sent 400 stunned freshmen and Greeks tumbling like bowling pins.

Ray Rainville, Sachems moderator, declared the winner to be the freshmen in the smashing photo finish. Sachems, senior honorary society, governs the length of time the freshmen must wear their beanies.

"Freek," a combination of the words "freshmen" and "Greek," was the name of the day, sponsored by the Interfraternity Council and Panhellenic.

fraternity and sorority governing bodies.

The tug-of-war ended a series of games including sack races, balloon blowing, wheelbarrow and baby bottle feeding contests. The 75 winners were awarded prizes such as yo-yo's, Halloween masks and Old Maid games.

A block dance was held on the entrance terrace of Keaney Gym Saturday night. Featuring music by the Van Goghs, the dance attracted some 900 freshmen and upperclassmen.

Student Senators Would Abolish All Class Officers

The Student Senate Executive Committee submitted a bill at Monday night's Senate meeting which, if adopted, would abolish all class officers and turn over the traditional duties of class officers to the Senate and the Memorial Union Board of Directors.

The bill, which will be studied by the Legislative Affairs Committee before reaching the Senate floor, has been prompted in part by a $1,173 budget deficit left by the Class of 1967. At Monday's meeting, the Executive Committee reported it had voted unanimously to hold the URI Accounting office responsible for what the Senators consider to be accounting errors.

The Executive Committee also voted to use student "lab fees" to help pay off the deficit, with regular Senate funds to make up for whatever balance remains.

Plans are in the works for a public hearing in the Union Ballroom to discuss the proposed abolition of Class officers, but no date has been considered as yet.

Two of last year's class officer elections will apparently be declared invalid, it was learned Monday night, due to two written complaints that the winners of the offices in question were working at the polls while voting was in progress. There was no mention of the

URI Bookstore Has Competition: Lambert's 'Coop'

The URI Bookstore will be meeting with some local competition now that a new co-operative bookstore has opened up just off campus.

Lambert's Book Shop, one of two stores owned by Joseph E. Lambert, has taken root in the Kingston Inn, 1320 Kingstown Rd. The store, Mr. Lambert said recently, is patterned after (and was set up with the help of) the Harvard University "Coop."

Mr. Lambert claims 3,500 titles in stock, both hard-and soft-cover, and he says most soft-cover books, if not on the racks, can be gotten from his distributor in from four to seven days. Hard-cover books, he said, take somewhat longer — about two weeks or so.

URI's Bookstore has come un-

Peace Picketers Declared Innocent

Two URI faculty members and a former student were declared innocent last Thursday of charges of disorderly conduct and obstructing police officers during a Peace demonstration July 27, when Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey spoke at a "Marine Frontiers Conference" here.

Judge Walter R. Orme handed down his verdict after having studied for over three weeks a transcript of the trial, which ended in Fourth District Court, West Kingston, August 29.

The three defendants were Dr. Elton Rayack, 42, of 130 Oakdale Dr., Peace Dale, Dept. of Economics; Prof. John P. Murphy, 29, of 21 Fortin Rd., Kingston, instructor of Philosophy at the URI Summer Session; and John N. Allan, 24, of Old Post Road, Wakefield, a graduate last June.

The charges had been pressed by South Kingstown police, who, with State police and Secret Service officials, had helped to set up and oversee a cordoned area inside which picketers were to stay while the vice president was in the vicinity.

Mr. Humphrey spoke in the Memorial Union, entering and leaving at the main entrance near the Ram's Den, and the picketers were assigned to an area across Lower College Rd., to the right of the main entrance of Pastore Hall.

Each of the defendants was alleged to have been involved in separate altercations with local police, who tried to keep them inside the cordon. Dr. Rayack and an unidentified man scuffled and struck each other as Dr. Rayack was taken into custody, and Mr. Allan was seized after he reportedly shoved through two officers in an attempt to leave the cordon.

The three men were held inside Pastore for a while, then taken, handcuffed, to the South Kingstown police station.

During the trial, the defense attorney, Milton Stanzler, attempted to show that the police

New Grading Requires 2.0 For Freshmen

Because it is felt that students are working to no more than their minimum capacity under the present graduated system, John J. Kupa, president of the Faculty Senate, has announced that this "dangerous system" is being replaced by uniform grade requirements.

Instead of the familiar 1.50 and 1.67 of the first two semesters, all new students are now required to attain and maintain a 2.0 average for all eight se-

Police Head To Announce Changes As Year Goes On

The campus police force may undergo major changes in its operations this fall under the direction of Joseph A. Oxley, asst. to the dean of students and recently appointed director of security. Mr. Oxley, a 25-year veteran of the FBI, said he would introduce the changes as he discovers a need for them.

"When the time comes for change, students will be notified about a week in advance so that the change will be fresh in their minds when it goes into effect," he said.

"I am not interested in talking now about a change that will not go into effect until December," he said. "I believe it is in the best interests of the students to announce these changes as we go along."

Parking Rules Changed

Mr. Oxley said he would like to call students' attention at this time to changes in the parking regulations. He cited 14 changes in these regulations, asking students to pay particular attention to a clause stating that second time offenders for speeding will have their case reviewed by the University Traffic Committee with a possible cancelling of the parking permit the result.

Other changes include a $15 fine for failure to report to the police within 24 hours of receipt of a white courtesy ticket and a careful spelling out of which roads fall under campus regulations.

The possibility of major changes in the campus police was first proposed by Dr. F. Don James this summer.

Changes May Be Big

Mr. Oxley may suggest "far-reaching changes" according to Dr. James.

Mr. Oxley was appointed director of security to improve existing security on campus, Dr. James said.

"Mr. Oxley's experience with the FBI makes him qualified for this purpose," Dr. James said this summer. "It is hoped he will use his training to give new methods to the existing force."

Dr. James said he seriously doubts that the university police will be given the power of arrest. He said administrative personnel would reconsider that matter if Mr. Oxley recommends that the force be given arrest power.

Doubts Arrest Power

Mr. Oxley said he would announce such a change if and when he feels it is necessary.

While Mr. Oxley will direct security, Chief Edward J. Ryan will remain as head of the force. It is believed that the present 17 man force will be expanded.

Dr. James and Thomas L. Green, dean of students, said they were opposed at this time to giving the university police the power of arrest.

10 MPH Limit Set

Besides the new speeding regulations and $15 white-ticket fine, other changes in the university traffic regulations are: students must register their cars annually rather than upon arrival, a special sticker will be issued for motorcycles, the maximum speed in parking lots has been set at 10 mph, passing is prohibited on all campus roads and pedestrian crossings, vehicles with student permits will not be allowed to drive through staff parking lots and regulations for towing areas have been spelled out more clearly.

Small lots around residence halls are reserved for unassigned staff permits and the right side of the loop in Fraternity Road will have a 15-minute parking limit day and night, according to the new regulations.

Art Council Series Concerts To Be Presented This Year

Concerts by Benny Goodman, clarinet jazzist, and Eileen Farrell, Metropolitan opera star, will highlight a series of five presentations at URI this year sponsored by the Fine Arts Council.

Accounting Prof. Appointed

Dr. Porter S. Wood, associate professor of accounting and business law and chairman of the accounting department, has been appointed for a one-year term as chairman of the National Accounting Careers Council, it was announced today.

Dr. Wood said the main objective of the council is to "attract more of the better qualified high school students to careers in accounting by pooling the resources of the council's seven sponsoring organizations."

Benny Goodman will play at Keaney Gym on Monday, Oct. 30 and Miss Farrell on April 19.

A Sean O'Casey play, "Pictures in the Hallway," Les Ballets Africains, a dancing troupe from Guinea and the French National Orchestra in concert will round out the Arts Series. The French National Orchestra will play Oct. 2 while the African Ballet performs Nov. 27 and the Sean O'Casey play runs March 27 - 29.

The Arts Council is presently running a subscription campaign, offering the five attractions for $5, a 50 per cent saving from individual event tickets. Tickets are available at the Watson House.

Diary Of A Freshman

by Rick Enser

Friday, September 15th, I arrived at the University of Rhode Island at 3 o'clock and was soon embarked on my Freshman year. Although bewitched, bothered and confused, I managed to survive the first day's tedious line-up of speeches, speeches, and more speeches. An almost unending barrage of well-wishings echoed through Keaney Gym, and as the night wore on, began to fall on deaf ears as the majority of the 2030 new students shifted in their seats and asked for some relief from the boredom. Finally we were dismissed and all returned to cramped quarters in the dormitories, or in some cases, our own homes.

Saturday, the most hectic day of the week, began with an added relief, as all students were addressed by their deans, at the academic counselling sessions, on the major aspects of college life. Although many students left more confused than ever, it was a pleasure to be told something worthwhile. Shortly came registration, the most unbelievable hassle ever originated anywhere. Student after student weaved through the complicated maze, each hoping the person before him was going the right way. Altogether I spent an hour and emerged carrying all sorts of goodies, more perplexed than ever.

Meanwhile another turmoil could be found at the bookstore as everyone flocked to purchase his essential materials which proved to be more expensive than expected.

The price of the books didn't seem to curb the rush, however, as the lines formed to the back of the store and remained so until closing time. Thankfully, the barbecue scheduled for that night was cancelled for some reason, or that too could have developed into another riot.

But soon the day calmed down and new friendships were established at a dance held on the tennis courts. A most welcome change.

Sunday dawned with a late sleep by those who were tired and church services for all who were religious. Today was a deviation from the week's past activities as the Rutgers University Glee Club performed for the college. At night a film entitled "The Visit" was shown, which could have used a more feasible plot.

Being one of the few who received a perfect schedule, I failed to take part in the curriculum counseling at Rodman Hall on Monday. Later, a student panel on academic affairs, although attended by few, was quite informative, as we gained some insight into college life from the students' view point. The Beanie Bounce — a Who's Who dance where all students became freshmen, ended this day's activities.

Tuesday the Education Data Bank, a test given to see how much we knew about ourselves, was taken by all Freshmen. Two of the questions asked, "Can you mix a dry martini," and, "Should women be drafted?" were undoubtedly answered "yes" by all the males.

Following this was the Association of Women Students' Hour which for some reason I failed to attend. In the evening a concert by the Rhode Island Philharmonic Orchestra, supposedly attended by all Freshmen, ended the five-day New Student Week Program.

I am still trying to figure out the purpose of the convocation held Wednesday morning. Another half hour of speeches, seemingly repetitious from the week's previous gatherings, was somehow useless.

Initially classes began at the stroke of 2 and all were off trying desperately to locate buildings and classrooms in order to get a seat, because the computer goofed again and placed 150 students in a room holding 100.

I've also found it impossible to get from Keaney Gym to the Fine Arts Center in five minutes unless I run; and then I miss half the class because I'm trying to catch my breath. How they can rig a schedule which calls for six classes one day, and only one class for the next is beyond me.

I suppose as time goes on, everything will fall into the groove. Now most of my time is spent trying to orientate myself to my schedule, and the days are far from boring.

Sooner or later it will begin to roll along until the end of the semester, but for now, I'm still trying to figure out what's going on.

Three Dates Set For Teachers Test

College seniors preparing to teach school may take the National Teacher Examinations on any of the three different test dates announced today by Educational Testing Service, a non-profit, educational organization which prepares and administers this testing program.

New dates for the testing of prospective teachers are: February 3, April 6, and July 6, 1968. The tests will be given at nearly 500 locations throughout the United States, ETS said.

Results of the National Teacher Examinations are used by many large school districts as one of several factors in the selection of new teachers and by several states for certification or licensing of teachers. Some colleges also require all seniors preparing to teach to take the examinations.

Mean Machine.

Here's the mean one. Honda Scrambler 160. Designed mean and rugged for rough riding, sharp and cool for the campus. Clean, perfectly balanced for easy handling.

And Honda's dependable OHC 4-stroke engine delivers up to 116 mpg. Performance? Speeds up to 75 mph. Initial price, upkeep and insurance are impressively low. Parking? No problem.

Make the scene at any of Honda's 1,800 dealers. Take a safety demonstration ride. Watch for the Scrambler 160. You'll agree it's a mean machine — at a lowdown price.

About 4000 Students at URI For Wet Summer Session

A combined enrollment of almost 4,000 was reached in two sessions held this summer at URI according to Eugene R. Wiseman, assistant to the dean of summer sessions, in what was one of the most rain-filled summers in Rhode Island history.

almost 4,000 was reached in two URI in each session, about 1,500 are regular URI undergraduates.

A keynote address by Hubert H. Humphrey, vice president highlighted the summer. His visit brought over 400 invited guests to the university to attend a Marine Frontiers Conference. The July 27th visit gave rise to the arrest of faculty members and students. That story is covered elsewhere.

One-Fourth Unfit?

At the beginning of the summer, a story in the Evening Bulletin declared that one-fourth of the students at URI are academically unfit and attributed the finding to the Faculty Senate. John J. Kupa, chairman of the Senate, vigorously denied the story's validity claiming it was the result of a reporter's misunderstanding of parliamentary procedure. Dr. Kupa, who succeeded Dr. William R. Ferrante as Senate head, said the report was placed on file with the recommendation that the committee be given the same charge next year.

Dr. Kupa said the story demonstrated "a disregard for accurate reporting."

"This story was literally dug out of the wastebasket of the university Faculty Senate," he said.

A Vietnam Summer project which involved over 7,000 nationally according to the Collegiate Press Service found a group of about 30 supporters on campus. The group sponsored a series of "peace discussions" and distributed anti-war literature on campus all summer.

'Other America' Topic of Union Coffee Hour

College students do not understand the "Other America" of the poor, the Rev. Henry Shelton, director of the Catholic Inner City Center in Providence, a "drop in" center for drop outs, said Thursday.

Speaking at the first "Contemporary America Series" coffee hour in the Memorial Union Browsing Room, Father Shelton said that most Americans, including students, can not understand the problems of the poor because they have no experience with poverty. Minorities, he said, are "far removed" from society.

The poor, Father Shelton said, must be "helped to help themselves." He cited job training and the resulting increase in job opportunities as one effective means of curbing poverty in America.

Minority groups, he stressed, must share in the decisions of the church and government organizations which try to help them, in order to maintain their dignity and self-respect.

Five Plays Presented

The Theatre Company of Boston was on campus for the summer, presenting five plays in the Union including a U. S. premiere of "Tango," a Polish play by Slawomi Mrozek.

Dr. F. Don James assumed his position as acting president of URI in August. At one point, Thornton B. McClure, vice president for business affairs and budget officer, was acting president as vacations left administrative offices all but empty. Mr. McClure acted as president when Vice President Humphrey spoke.

The University's newly established Vandalism Committee met several times this summer to seek a solution to the $6,400 damage to the campus from vandalism in the last academic year. The committee failed to make any recommendations this summer although hoped to early this fall.

Films Being Made

The university began competing with Hollywood on a small level as it began work on 10 educational films on fishing. The films are to be completed by next July.

Mrs. Bertha C. Waring ended 17 years at URI as program coordinator of the Union last month when she retired. She is succeeded by Mrs. Eleanor M. Carlson.

Repair work on Edwards Hall began late in August, more than three months behind schedule. The Hall will probably be re-opened next April of May.

Chancellor Appointed

As the summer drew to a close, Lawrence E. Dennis a career executive in higher education, was named the first chancellor of Rhode Island's college education system at a salary of $30,000 a year, the highest salary, purportedly, of any public official in the state.

Police Have Hands Full With 600 Women Protestors

by Walter Grant

Collegiate Press Service

WASHINGTON (CPS) — Hundreds of women protesting the draft and the Vietnam war scuffled with police in front of the White House Wednesday after holding a rally to pledge their support to young Americans who refuse to participate in the war.

The women encountered police when they attempted to disregard a recently enacted regulation restricting the number of people permitted to picket at the White House at any one time.

Police joined arms and formed lines to push back women who tried to force their way on to the sidewalk in front of the White House. The women charged the police lines en masse, but were unable to break through and carry on their protest.

Four persons, two of them men, were arrested during the hassle. Many of the women received bruises as they were pushed by police and some fell to the ground, but none were injured seriously. However, there were numerous charges of police brutality.

After failing to break police lines, about 100 of the women staged a sit-in at a busy intersection in front of the White House, despite police threats that they would be arrested.

The struggle with police occurred because the women refused to abide by a regulation limiting the number of people permitted to picket at the White House to 100. The new regulation also prohibits protests at the White House gates without police permission. The women had obtained this permission, however.

The protest rally and demonstration was organized by a group called Women Strike For Peace, with headquarters in New York. About 600 women attended the rally and participated in the protest. Most of them were middle-aged women. They appeared to be from the middle class.

The rally was held at the Elipse behind the White House. From there, the women marched to the Selective Service headquarters about three blocks away carrying signs calling for an end to the war and the draft.

The women marched up and down the street in front of the Selective Service office chanting in unison, "Back the boys who will not go. You say go; we say no."

Hallowed tradition of "pinning" a girl is up-dated by Sprite bottle caps.

According to an independent survey (we took it ourselves), a startling new practice is becoming widespread on some college campuses.

Suddenly, fraternity men are no longer "pinning" the lovely young things that catch their eye.

Instead, they reach for a bottle of tart, tingling Sprite—and proceed to "cap" the object of their affections.

Why has this come about? Perhaps because of what happens when you go through the ceremony of opening a bottle of Sprite. It fizzes! Roars! Buzzes! Tingles! Bubbles!

All of which makes for a much more moving moment than to simply "pin" a girl.

Then, too, the intimacy of two people engaged in the act of opening a bottle of Sprite in itself leads to strong emotional involvement.

Capped off, of course, by the sharing of a few moments of delicious abandon. (Tasting the tingling tartness of Sprite, that is.)

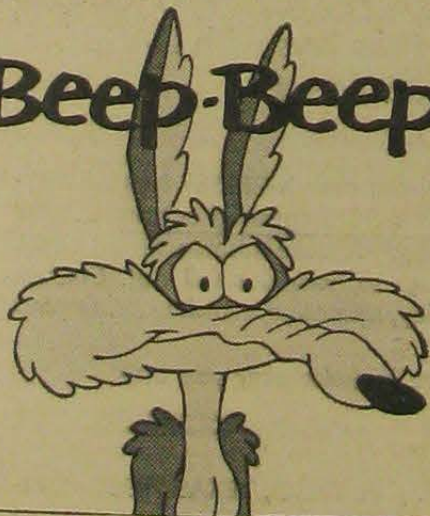

The beauty of the idea is that if the course of true love does not run smooth, you don't have to go to the trouble of getting back your pin.

You just buy another bottle of Sprite.

Record Review Part I

The Yiddish Are Coming!

The Yiddish Are Coming!

by Barry Torman

JEWISH 101 (hoo hah!) is a three credit (oy vey) crash course which teaches you how to become Jewish overnight (you should live and be well). Said course may be found in a new comedy album entitled with music, songs, and sketches by the writers and producers of the FIRST FAMILY ALBUM. This new album on the Verve label stars Lou Jacobi and Betty Walker, and deals humorously with the recent Arab-Israeli War.

THE YIDDISH ARE COMING!
THE YIDDISH ARE COMING!

THE WINDOWS OF THE WORLD may shine even brighter for a gal named Dionne Warwick as the result of a new single and album release by the same name. With the help of some truly successful arrangements by Burt Bacharach, Dionne not only puts across her new 'rock' single in acceptable fashion, but shows an even wider range of talents by belting out standards like "You're Gonna Hear From Me" and "Somewhere". My suggestion to stereo fans is that you select your copy of WINDOWS OF THE WORLD (Scepter records) in mono because there really isn't enough sound separation on this album to warrant stereo.

The Ramsey Lewis Trio plus twenty-one provide the big-band sounding, jazz-oriented flick themes that make THE MOVIE ALBUM one beautiful production. The themes from "The Pawnbroker," "Americanization of Emily," "From Russia With Love," and "Matchmaker" from "Fiddler On The Roof" are performed in an easy-going, modern jazz style which IS Ramsey and associates: Eldee Young (bass and cello) and Red Holt (drums). Most of the arrangements are to be credited to Richard Evans who also directed the twenty-four jazz pros heard in this new Ramsey release on the Cadet label.

THE EARTH (Warner Bros.) by Rod McKuen is little more than selections from McKuen's book "Listen To The Warm" read by him with musical background arranged by Anita Kerr and performed extremely well by the San Sebastian Strings. While McKuen has placed a moving and inspirational message on this new disc, it's not the sort of thing you'd want to listen to over and over again. If possible, don't be the first kid on your block to own this album. Borrow it instead from the fellow next door, but be sure to return it so that others may be inspired (inexpensively) also. Incidentally, this album is at least five puffs longer than most LP's. It runs over forty minutes, whereas most are in the vicinity of thirty, but remember! It's not how long you make it... it's how you make it long.

Another softly-sung slice of Brazilian music with some American standard pop tunes thrown in for good measure blend sweetly together in BEACH SAMBA (Verve) by that girl from Ipanema—Astrud Gilberto. In the title song, Astrud tries hard - and with a good amount of success - to imitate that style of singing-without-words made famous by Miriam Makeba. 'Ba-ba-da-ba' are the only lyrics repeated throughout, allowing her voice to be used as an instrument without the benefit of words. Astrud teams up later in the album with her six-year-old son Marcello in a cute rendition of the 1966 Lovin' Spoonful hit, "You Didn't Have To Be So Nice." The sound here, however, is strictly American pop.

The girl on the jacket cover may not really be named Tana, and the guy beside her doesn't exactly look like a saint, but together ST. GEORGE AND TANA IS NOW, and no one can take that away from them. Their songs are original, current, thought-provoking, and presented in a style such that one can actually hear and understand the words (amazing) as they tell it like it is. They sound something like a Peter, Paul and Mary minus one, or maybe a Mamas and Papas minus two, but they're exactly like no other group which is rather refreshing to those plagued by our present day stereotypes. Incidentally, they use something which sounds like a harpsichord mixed in with the album's background music to provide a truly unique experience in listening on this Kapp recording. For that matter, it may even be a real harpsichord.

For those who would like to hear selections from the albums reviewed in RECORD REVIEW PART I along with commentary and air play of other new album releases, may we suggest you tune in tonight at 8:30 for RECORD REVIEW PART II to be simultaneously broadcast over WRIU-AM (580 kc.) and WRIU-FM (91.1 MC.).

WRIU Sound Scene

WRIU, the campus radio station, takes on a new form this year in terms of both programming and equipment.

WRIU-AM, a closed circuit started broadcasting activities the day freshmen arrived on campus. WRIU-FM, 91.1 kc., went on the air last Monday.

The AM station, at 580 mg., is almost totally rock music with only two jazz shows per week. FM programming includes classical, show tunes, and folk music, along with discussion programs, news, sports and stock reports.

WRIU will be stressing sports this year and it will carry all home and away football and basketball games. Special weekly sports programs will be devoted to analysis of sporting events with emphasis on URI and other collegiate teams.

Among the acquisitions that WRIU made during the summer include a new console in the AM studio, a redesigned FM studio, cartridge machines, tape recorders, and 2,500 records, that were donated by WARV in Warwick, were added to the record library.

WRIU still needs new staff members even though 50 students from last year's staff returned this year. Students interested in joining the station can fill out an application in the station's offices on the third floor of the Union.

The current WRIU-AM program guide is:

URI Delegates At Maine U. Meet

Six delegates from URI discussed collegiate problems at a student leaders' conference at the University of Maine in Orono last Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The conference drew about 50 people from the six New England state-sponsored universities, according to Philip Beauchamp, Student Senate president, who was one of the URI delegates.

The other delegates, who were selected by Mr. Beauchamp, were Howard Kilberg, representing the student affairs committee of the Senate; Irene Sobel from the Panhellenic Council; Patricia Darnall, Association of Women Students; Gerald Coletti, Memorial Union Board of Directors; and Jeffrey Wright, Interfraternity Council.

Mr. Beauchamp said each of the delegates attended one of six discussion groups, including student government, campus problems, teacher and course evaluation, social affairs, student discipline, and student, faculty and administration relations.

Learning Exciting Journey Dr. James Tells Frosh

More than 2000 new University of Rhode Island students, largest entering class in URI history, were told by Dr. F. Don James, acting university president, at a convocation last week "to make learning not a mechanical chore, but rather an exciting journey that lies ahead."

"The opening up of new ideas, new thoughts, new concepts, new horizons, can be the most challenging and exciting adventure that you can follow," he said.

"Learn to recognize early the richness of the treasure that awaits you and the unfolding opportunities for a rapid broadening of your horizons," he said.

"These four years ahead of you are in many ways the most important years of your life," Dr. James said.

The entering class, numbering 2031, was chosen from a total of 5975 applicants. There are 689 men and 607 women students from Rhode Island, and 112 men and 74 women Rhode Island residents transferring to URI from other institutions.

Non-Rhode Island freshmen number 261 men and 233 women, and 28 men and 27 women transfer students.

Of 23 international students from 17 foreign countries, 20 are men. Out-of-state students come from 17 states, the District of Columbia and the Virgin Islands, according to a report by James W. Eastwood, dean of admissions.

Statistics On The New Students

Here are the statistics on the 2,026 new students at URI:

There are 1,777 students in the class of 1971 of which 940 are men and 837 are women.

There are 682 frosh men from Rhode Island, and 258 hail from other states.

There are 603 frosh women from Rhode Island; 234 are from out of state.

There are 249 transfer students, of which 144 are men and 105 are women.

Of the transfer men, there are 115 from Rhode Island and 29 from out of state.

There are 78 transfer women from Rhode Island and 27 from out of state.

Added statistics:

There are 172 students from foreign countries studying on campus, with an additional 30 foreign students in practical training off campus.

Of students living on campus, 419 are in triple rooms, 221 men and 198 women are in triples.

Bookstore Error In Cover Sheets Cost Freshmen

Due to a reported "clerical error" on the part of the URI Bookstore staff, freshmen at the start of the semester were overcharged 75 cents on packages of new English paper "cover sheets" which should have sold for 10 cents per package.

According to Dr. Roberta-Marie Hard, director of English graduate assistants, the mistake was brought to her attention by students last Thursday. The cover sheets, sold ten to the package, will be used on student theses. They have spaces allocated to show points deducted for mistakes in punctuation, content, spelling and other areas.

There is also a pledge of honesty to be signed by the student submitting the paper.

Dr. Hard said she was informed by a Bookstore official that the error was caused in part by the large number of inexperienced store employees.

The Bookstore, Dr. Hard said, will refund the 75 cents to those who were overcharged. Proof of purchase is necessary.

Summer Peace Pickets Found Innocent

were acting without authority in restricting picketers to a sector set apart from the general public. Two of the defense witnesses, Dr. John F. Quinn, vice president for student affairs, and Dr. Robert C. Spencer, dean of the summer session and dean of the graduate school, entered what appeared to be conflicting testimony concerning the arrangements made before the visit for regulating picketers.

Dean Spencer had said that in a telephone conversation before the vice president's visit Dr. Quinn had asked for a "list" of those on campus who would be most likely to take part in demonstrations.

Dr. Quinn "emphatically denied" he had asked for such a list.

Questioned last week, Dean Spencer said there had been no real contradiction, "except in the language used." He said he had been in error in using the word "list."

"The atmosphere has been muddled considerably," he said. "A cloud of suspicion has been thrown on people who I know acted in good faith."

He said he cooperated with Dr. Quinn's request to find out who would be demonstrating, and what their plans would be. But, he explained, "Dr. Quinn asked this in the spirit of recognizing the rights of these people."

The police received their orders late, he said, and the orders were conflicting, so what resulted at Pastore was "a very confusing situation."

"The question was really one of allocation of space for a peaceful demonstration," Dean Spencer summed up, "but it was converted to one of the right to demonstrate."

"I went (to the area) and stood with the demonstrators for over 40 minutes," Dr. Quinn said recently, "because I felt that somebody from the administration should be there."

He confirmed that the Secret Service had held meetings with URI personnel before the visit, "but I officially or personally had dealings with nobody."

He said that the cordoned area set aside for picketers was chosen by the Secret Service, who, he said, "were acting in vice president Humphrey's interest."

Student Senate Seeks Check, Balance Government

A Student Senator asked the Senate to seek a check and balance system of government for Student Senate and administrative officials at Monday's Senate meeting.

Howard E. Kilberg, a junior and chairman of the Student Affairs Committee of the Student Senate proposed that a referendum be held "to give the university president second thoughts" about a Student Senate bill which he may at first veto.

"If the issue is strong enough and the students and administrators are divided, then a referendum should be held," Mr. Kilberg said. "A three-fourths approval by the student body would give the president a better idea of student opinion."

He gave a bookstore boycott as a possible example of an issue he feels might be resolved under such a process.

Mr. Kilberg said he gathered many of his ideas at the National Student Association Convention which he attended this summer. He said he did not recommend that URI join NSA.

Mr. Kilberg asked the Senate to consider establishing a student bar. He said the university could issue I.D.'s as proof of age.

"This would allow students who have the right to drink, to drink," he said.

He said the bar would protect students over 21 from being tempted to aid and abet a minor from committing a drinking offense.

"I'm not saying drinking is necessary," he said.

Mr. Kilberg told the Senate it is their duty to recognize the "existing problems which each and every student on this campus faces."

"Our job simply is to protect the rights of each student and to perpetuate a feeling of involvement and concern," he said. "We must not settle for the half settled solutions of the past."

"Let there be no mistakes made," he said. "We are representatives of the students and not of the administration."

Mr. Kilberg said he was concerned with making the Student Senate a respected body on campus.

Another possible solution to bookstore difficulties which Mr.

Kilberg suggested Monday night was to tax each student $5 and turn the resulting $40,000 toward the mortgage of the Union, thereby relieving the bookstore of this burden and hopefully reducing book prices.

When asked if there would be a saving to the student under this proposal, he said he believed so.

Education Week Planned for Oct.

A Higher Education Week in Rhode Island is being planned for the latter part of October by the state's universities and colleges, it was announced early this month by Dr. Charles B. Willard, acting president of Rhode Island College. A definite date will be set as soon as arrangements for a speaker of national prominence are completed, he said.

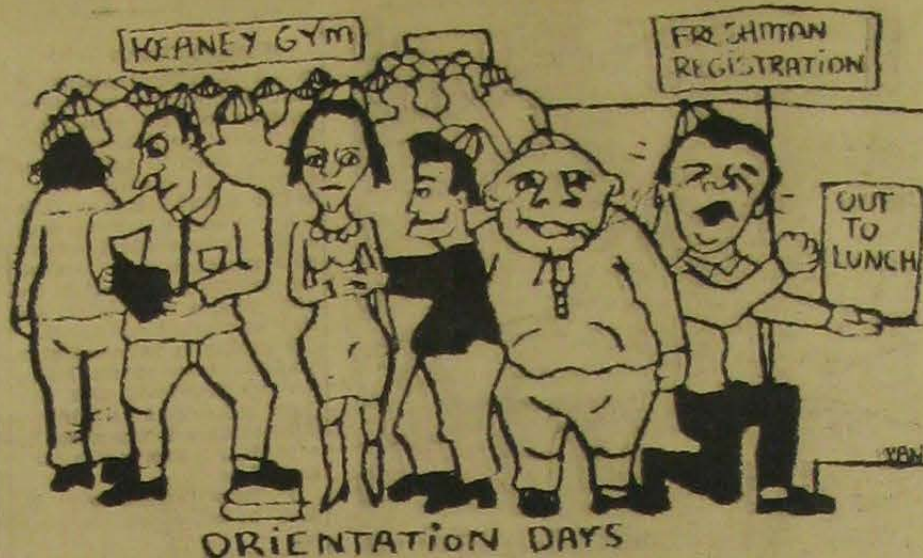

The project, which is the first of its kind to be held in Rhode Island, was suggested by Albert J. Hoban, vice chairman of the Board of Trustees of State Colleges, according to Dr. Willard.

In addition to drawing public attention to the different kinds of opportunities for higher education in Rhode Island, it is intended to make the public aware of the possibilities of financial aid to students and to stress the economic impact of the institutions on the communities in which they are located, he said.

"The latter will point out the payrolls, the purchasing power of faculty and staff, home ownership and the tremendous outlay of capital required for the preparation of professional people for the state's educational, engineering, scientific and business needs," he said.

MANAGERS SOUGHT

The URI football team needs male students to serve as managers. All interested students should report at 5:30 today or tomorrow to Andy Meshekow behind Keaney Gymnasium. Freshmen may apply.

der fire recently by the Student Senate and a number of individuals, who have claimed the facility is overcharging and underservicing the students who patronize it. Critics point to textbook costs, and often unavailability, as well as to the several thousands of dollars lost annually to theft.

Countering some of the criticism is the Bookstore's reply that it must make enough profit from sales to pay its own staff and upkeep, and at the same time contribute about $40,000 per year to the Memorial Union mortgage.

The Lambert co-op works this way: Patrons pay $1 for membership, which fee is returned if more than $20 worth of merchandise is purchased. Normal list prices are usually charged for books, but in June a "Patronage Refund" of ten per cent of all purchases is returned to subscribers.

Ex-URI President Gets N. Y. Post

Dr. Francis H. Horn, former URI president, has been appointed president of New York's Commission on Independent Colleges and Universities, according to a press release from the Association of Colleges and Universities of the state of New York (ACUSNY). The Commission is a division of ACUSNY.

The appointment was made by Dr. Edward J. Mortola, president of Pace College, and Dr. Clifford Lord, president of Hofstra University and chairman of the Commission.

Dr. Horn retired this summer as president of URI, a post student who obtains less than a 1.0 average at the end of the first semester. Dismissal without appeal will be the result of a second semester average eight or more quality points below a 2.0, if preceded by a probationary semester.

These changes will remain in use until their effect can be determined. The Faculty Senate feels, however, that the added stimulus can be met and will put few students in academic difficulties.

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS

Volleyball, basketball, badminton, tennis, field hockey and archery are some of the intramural sports being sponsored by the women's division of the physical education department this fall. The Rifle Association, Women's Athletic Association, and Orchestra, a nationally affiliated dance club, are also open to women students. A co-educational recreation series, featuring bowling, volleyball, tennis and badminton is also being sponsored.

The two officers' elections, and any others which may be considered necessary if more complaints are voiced, will be held in conjunction with an election for a vacant seat from the women's residence halls.

Announcements

Tomorrow, from 12 noon to 4 in the Memorial Union Ballroom, the Blue Key Society will sponsor "Club '71" to introduce the freshmen and other new students to the various campus organizations. ## Football and URI Athletics

Dr. John F. Quinn, URI vice president for student affairs, lectured the freshmen during orientation week on school spirit. He, as the other speakers, emphasized school spirit in connection with the university football team.

The remarks by Dr. Quinn and his fellow speakers touched several crucial points of school spirit. On campus we see the vast display in the union devoted to football, the car bumper stickers and the special stationery used by the athletic department.

"It's your eleven in '67" is the message of these advertisements. With such extensive concentration on football, we wonder whether the athletic department has forgotten the varsity cross country, soccer, golf, sailing and tennis teams competing this fall for URI.

Optimism Pervades Campus After Thumping Grid Win In Opener over Delaware

An air of optimism pervades the URI campus this week after a thumping football victory over the University of Delaware Saturday, 28 - 17, in the season's first game for the Rams.

With only about half the squad returning lettermen, head coach Jack Zilly faced a substantial rebuilding problem, compounded by the loss of Tom Fay and Steve Collis. Howie Small, offensive center, and Dave O'Donnell, defensive back, return as co-captains.

An outstanding passer from his quarterback position last season, Fay is not competing because he is on academic probation. Collis, who punched up the Ram offense with his place kicking, has enlisted in the VISTA program and is not currently attending school.

In driving to the touchdown Saturday that brought them to the lead, 21 - 17, with only two minutes left, the Rams successfully gambled on fourth down and made the short yardage for a first down.

43 Yard Pass

After Ron Madison plunged for one of these first downs, placing the ball on the Delaware 43-yard line, Larry Caswell pitched a strike to Frank Geiselman who was running a pass-pattern over the center. He caught the ball at the 20-yard line, streaking the last 20 yards between two defenders for a touchdown.

A pass interception by Ed Kassak of a last-minute bid by Delaware was converted into a fourth touchdown for the Rams. Bill Bjerke scored the six points on a one-yard run.

Early in the second quarter, the Rams, trailing by seven points, evened the score on a fake field-goal play from the Delaware 18. Caswell threw to fullback Brent Kaufman who scored the first of his two touchdowns.

It took Delaware, however, only 11 plays after the ensuing kickoff to move 72 yards for the go ahead TD. With equal speed, Caswell then directed an air drive — nine passes and one ground play — that tied the score.

In that march Caswell completed five passes, the crucial one a 49-yard play to Geiselman that brought the ball to the Blue Hen's two-yard line. Kaufman covered that distance on the next play.

Rates Team 'Improved'

Coach Zilly has rated his team as "improved" but there were varied speculations on how much the Rams would improve on last season's unenviable one win, seven losses, one tie record.

The victory, coming before Saturday's annual grudge match with Brown University, and two games before homecoming against New Hampshire, is impressive because of Delaware's stature. They won the Mid-Atlantic Conference Championship last year and are expected to repeat.

Three Veterans, Two Sophs To Lead Cross Country Team

Three veterans and two sophomores give indication in early practice that their performances will determine the fate of URI cross country this fall.

Returning for another fling at racing through corn fields and along rolling hills on the road to Wolf Rock are Charlie McGuinnis as captain, Mike Aaronson, a strong dependable man, and Ken Skelly, currently plagued by blisters.

Bill Benesch and Henry Daricek, consistently top performers for the freshmen last season, are expected to fill the next two spots. Both men have come through the heavy workouts in good condition.

Gary Pace, a senior who contributed several points for the Rams last season, has re-entered school after a semester's absence and could oust one of the two sophomores from the top five positions.

Beyond these six men, the field appears wide open. No outstanding prospects have burst in front during the practice sessions which began Labor Day. A crucial loss to Rhody this fall is Alan Patenaude, a sophomore who last year was the team's steady number two man. He fractured both legs in an automobile accident during this summer.

Six dual meets, a triangular meet with Providence College and Brown University at the P.C. campus, and three championships comprise the cross country schedule. The first meet, scheduled for the URI campus, is against Springfield next Wednesday.

Other dual meets are with New Hampshire, Northeastern, Fordham, Massachusetts, Connecticut. The Yankee Conference Championship will be run Nov. 4 on the Maine campus. The New England Championship at Boston Nov. 13 and the Intercollegiate Championship in New York Nov. 20 will complete the season.

CAZZETTA LEAVES URI

Vincent C. Cazzetta, for four years assistant basketball coach at the University of Rhode Island, accepted the head coaching job during the summer of the Pittsburgh Pipers, a team in the American Basketball League.

While at URI, Cazzetta assisted head coach Ernie Calverley. Previously he coached at Seattle University. At the time of his appointment to the Piper post, Cazzetta rejected an invitation of the Beacon to comment on URI athletics.

FOOTBALL COACH

William R. Tyson, former defensive linebacker for Utah State, has been appointed to the URI football staff, filling the vacancy created by the resignation of Bob Lynch who has accepted a high school teaching-coaching position in New Canaan, Conn.

"Randy" played for the Providence Steamrollers in the Atlantic Coast Conference League and was former assistant football coach at Bishop Hendricken

High School in Warwick. Last season he was assistant football coach at Utah State.

TENNIS TEAM MEETS

Candidates for either the varsity or freshman tennis team will meet in room 210 tomorrow afternoon at 4 in Keaney Gymnasium. Competition begins Friday against MIT in a match to be played on the Keaney courts, followed by a match Tuesday with Brandeis University at Waltham.

CREW COACH SELECTED

Dave Nystrom, a graduate student in geography and veteran oarsman from Washington Lee University, has taken over the coaching duties of the URI fledgling crew club. A member of the team that won the national championship at Washington & Lee, Nystrom rowed last season for Marietta College which won the Dad Vail regatta.

Ralph Kopperman, who started the club on campus, left the university last year for a teaching position in New York. At the club's initial meeting this week, many new members, mostly freshmen, signed up for the competition this fall on Worden's Pond.

Brown Football Game Warning Issued

"By mutual agreement between the University of Rhode Island and Brown University, students of either of the two institutions visiting the campus of the other from today until game time under other than normal circumstances will become liable for disciplinary action. This agreement is arranged annually between the two Universities in an effort to avoid incidents."

Thomas L. Green
Dean of Students
